How to start a goat farming business

Benefits of goats

Goats can tolerate climate change and provide high quality meat and nutritious milk. Additionally, goat farming is a source of employment and requires less labor, space, and capital to start. Also, goat farming is a great source of revenue for the government when goat products are exported to other counties. Furthermore, goat farming is easy and simple to start. Also, goat droppings are a source of soil nutrients thus facilitating good crop growth.

Guiding tips

First, stock good quality, healthy goat breeds and keep animal houses clean to get high returns and avoid disease outbreaks respectively. Additionally, feed animals on nutritious high quality fresh feeds for maximum production. Furthermore, feed goats on forage either hay or silage and sufficient good quality water. Also make a grazing yard to minimize food costs. Also timely deworm and vaccinate animals. Lastly, conduct a market survey to analyse goat products with high market demand.
