Operating a grain silo

Silo management

As grain is graded according to size and shape, it is sent to storage cells directly and thermometric equipment is used to measure temperature. As silo manager coordinate operations and monitors storage conditions, grain is moved from cells and stored in loading hoppers.
Similarly, the lory is cleaned, grain is loaded, weighed and sampled for final inspection and finally the lory is cleared for grain delivery.