»SECRET Natural PLANT to Making Chicken LAY More Eggs«

»SECRET Natural PLANT to Making Chicken LAY More Eggs«

For your chicken to lay more eggs consistently they must be good mature layers, have enough water and feed, a source of calcium, and the chickens have to be in good health.
When you start using Mexican marigold at your chicken farm, snakes, pests and small or few eggs problems will be gone. Mexican marigold produces a certain aroma that reduces the stress level of your chickens in certain ways hence helping your chicken lay more eggs consistently. The flowers of Mexican marigold usually produces a very distinctive smell which mosquitoes dont like. Therefore having this plant planted around your chicken house will keep away mosquitoes which usually transmit fowl pox to chickens.

Mexican marigold as a repellent for snakes

Mexican marigold acts as a natural repellent for snakes. This plant will keep snakes away from your chicken house.
Having some of the branches of this weed in the chicken laying nests is going to make the chicken relax while laying eggs. Nevertheless, there are other herbs that can help your chicken lay more eggs.